

Pedal Boxes

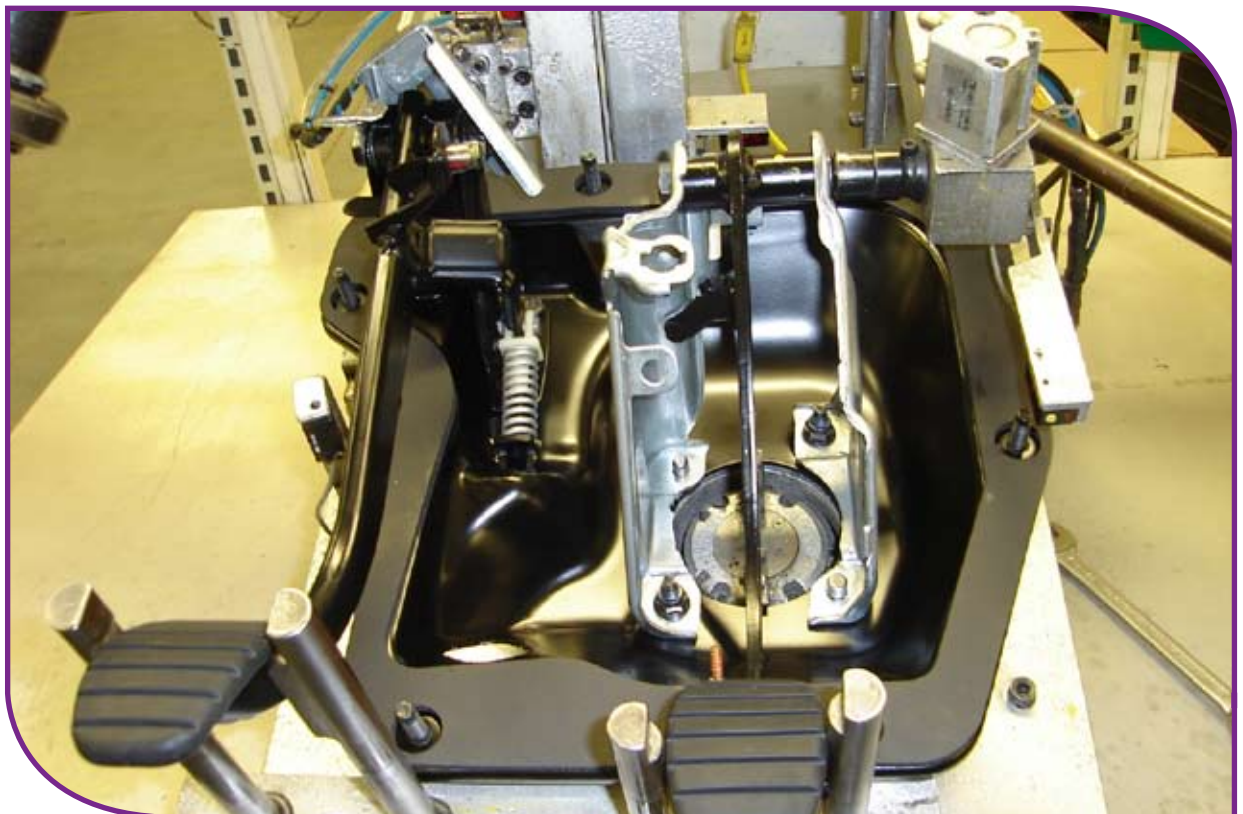

Remploy Automotive has been supplying pedal box assemblies since June 2006 to DriveSol, one of the world's largest vehicle component manufacturers, which operates 20 sites in 12 countries and has a turnover of $380m.

Under the deal Remploy Automotive assembles and supplies more than 100,000 pedal box units per year which are fitted to X83 platform vans built by General Motors & Renault Nissan.

Remploy's pedal boxes are fitted on Vauxhall and Opel Vivaro, Renault Trafic and Nissan Primastar commercial vans used extensively throughout Europe.

Parts are shipped from DriveSol's manufacturing sites in Sweden to Remploy Automotive's Coventry factory, where special production cells have been introduced. Up to 450 per day of the final pedal box units are delivered daily to General Motors GMM van operation in Luton and up to 360 finished units per day are also shipped to Nissan's van plant in Barcelona, Spain.

The pedal box units – which house brake and clutch pedals – are a safety critical feature of vehicles and have to be built to very demanding standards. Remploy Automotive use their renowned poka-yoke assembly processes to ensure right-first-
