Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) is an internationally recognised training course which can do just that. It helps people to learn how to spot the signs and symptoms of mental ill health and provide help on a first aid basis. MHFA does not teach you to diagnose or treat conditions or provide counselling. But, as with physical first aid, you will learn how to respond in a crisis and look after the person until they can access professional help. It also addresses mental health stigma and promotes early intervention and positive wellbeing.

Do you:

- Want to equip colleagues with the knowledge, skills and confidence to deal sensitively and professionally with people experiencing mental health issues?
- Want to ensure that employees have access to the right support in a mental health crisis?
- Wish to address mental health stigma and wellbeing in the workplace and show that your organisation takes mental health seriously?
- Want to access high quality evidence-based training delivered by accredited trainers?
- Want to enhance your wellbeing offer by adding Mental health first aiders to your organisation?

“

The training delivered helped me understand issues around mental health that we don't normally recognise. Great course and the take away material is detailed and professional. The trainer gave great energy.
