Developing your employees' personal resilience could significantly reduce the impact of mental health on your workforce and improve business performance.

Resilient employees cope better with adversity and are more likely to continue performing well when faced with challenges, as well as being better able to maintain their mental wellbeing.

Does your:

- Organisation feel it could benefit from a more resilient workforce?
- Organisation want to support employee mental wellbeing?
- Workforce know how to maximise their personal resilience in order to work to their full potential in the workplace?
- Business face challenges and you want to support your workforce to manage more resiliently?

An interactive course with lots of discussion of different topics. I learnt about resilience and where I maybe fall foul and how I can improve my own resilience. The trainer was engaging and knowledgeable.

Online course summary

This 4 hour online course provides a safe and open environment to discuss personal resilience. We explore different factors influencing resilience and ask delegates to self reflect on how these aid them individually. We also consider the relationship between stress, wellbeing and performance, as well as the drivers for self-resilience and the attributes of a resilient person.

The session provides delegates with the opportunity to create an individual plan for building and maintaining their own personal resilience. A range of tools, strategies and techniques are explored and practised so delegates are fully equipped to use this following the training, at work and in their personal lives. All delegates will receive a comprehensive PDF workbook and certificate of attendance (if required).

Key topics

- What is resilience and why it is important
- Recognising the relationship between pressure and stress and symptoms of stress
- Reflecting on what influences their wellbeing at work
- Exploring the key ingredients for resilience
- Determining areas for development in their own personal resilience
- Challenging negative thinking patterns
- Analysing the benefits of social support and how to strengthen their own network
- Considering their own strengths and motivations
- Identifying five ways to improve their own wellbeing.

Each delegate will get:

- An understanding of their own resilience and how it can impact wellbeing, stress and performance
- A range of evidence-based techniques and approaches for building resilience
- A comprehensive in-course PDF workbook
- Access to their own I-resilience report with specific individualised tips and strategies.

Your organisation gets:

A summary of feedback in order to show its impact and to identify any further learning needs.

Design and methodology

The online course has been developed by qualified training designers in line with the Training Accreditation Programme methodology. This is an industry recognised standard with the aim of ensuring all training activity is structured effectively and learning is embedded.

Training is learner-centred and skills-based with the emphasis on engaging learners in the experience through the use of screen share, polls and other functions available by Zoom Video Communications. Clear objectives are set and measured through discussion and individual activities. The modular structure allows delegates to build an individual action plan relevant to their own situation.

Complementary online training courses:

- Online mental wellbeing in the workplace (2x2 hour sessions)
- Online Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) (15 hours).
