My journey with Remploy

We know that everyone has different support needs and their own idea on the career path they want to take. This is why we offer you choice and control over your journey to employment, so you can choose the best options for you.

If you have a disability and would like support to develop your skills and find work, Work First Scotland could be right for you.

Remploy has supported over 150,000 people in the UK into work

My Objectives

Our friendly advisor will get to know you and work with you to create your personal development plan which includes:

- Your aims and goals
- Preparing you to move into work
- Skills development and training

My Opportunities

We can connect you with many employers who have job opportunities across Scotland, including; Marks & Spencer, Mitie, Lloyds Banking Group and McDonald's, to name just a few.

Self-employment is also an option, with advice and guidance to set up your own business or with self-employment opportunities.

My Development

You will have access to a wide range of support to help develop your skills and prepare for work, including face-to-face support at our branch, or via our unique online service, as well as extra support from lots of local partners.

My Career

Once you start your new job, we provide in-work support to help you succeed in your new role. We can help with workplace adjustments, job guidance and advice on career progression.

About Work First Scotland

Work First Scotland is a programme that supports disabled people, to find and succeed in work.

As a leading provider of employment and skills support for disabled people in Scotland, we are working with the Scottish Government through the Work First Scotland programme to provide the support you need.

Here's what Donna has to say about our support ...

“The team at Remploy helped me to turn my life around. I had great support with confidence building, highlighting my transferable skills and help with writing an effective CV, interview preparation and setting goals for myself.

I am delighted to be working. This job has given me routine and structure and the means to earn my own money which has really boosted my confidence. I am now in permanent employment that I enjoy and things have completely changed for me in the past year.”
